

PATENT LICENSING PROCESS

Abstract of Disclosure

The present application provides a method for patent licensing which comprises providing a web site listing a plurality of patents available for unilateral license together with copies of at least one unilateral license for associated with at least one of the listed patents.

APP ID=09682891

Figures

Figure 2: The effect of the number of nodes on the performance of the network. The figure shows that the performance of the network decreases as the number of nodes increases. This is because the network becomes more complex and the number of connections between nodes increases, leading to a higher probability of errors.